

Executive Divorce

New Jersey Executive Divorce Lawyers

The issues that face corporate executives, especially of publicly traded companies in divorce matters are significant. They include the required understanding of complex executive compensation packages, tax treatment of compensation, stock awards and the like, and, most importantly, the effect that public disclosure of the divorce may have on the business. Of course, confidentiality and discretion are paramount in these very sensitive matters.

We also understand that the executive did not achieve his or her position by accident. These clients expect concise yet thorough advice delivered in a timely expeditious fashion. Executives have busy and hectic schedules. We understand this. We work diligently to represent the clients in a way that will not disturb their ability to conduct their business undisturbed by the noise created by the divorce process.

Our firm is uniquely equipped to deal with all of the issues that arise in the divorce process for executives. This will include tax matters, estate matters, employment matters and compensation matters. We build a team of attorneys from related departments to ensure that the client receives the best advice from all disciplines in order to achieve the best results.

Our firm has experience representing executives of some of the largest companies in America as well as celebrities and individuals in the public eye. We understand the importance of confidentiality and the dangers of public disclosure of information that could affect not only the celebrity goodwill but also the reputation of the executive and his or her company.