NJ Injury Attorneys Handling Wrongful Death Cases

In a wrongful death case, the personal representative of the estate of the deceased is authorized to file a lawsuit against those responsible for the death. Liability may arise for both negligent and intentional acts. When a loved one is taken from us prematurely, we can never be truly compensated or made whole by financial compensation. However, families suffering from the consequences of a wrongful death can depend on our injury attorneys to represent their interests in seeking the maximum amount of financial relief. A wrongful death case arises when an individual is killed as a result of the negligence, carelessness or recklessness of another person or entity.

Given the complexities of Wrongful Death cases, we suggest you contact one of our experienced personal injury attorneys at 973-627-7300 at Einhorn Barbarito today. Our injury lawyers handle wrongful death personal injury cases throughout New Jersey.
